REPORT: Transit Development Plan Update

BACKGROUND

The City of Grand Island is leading the development of the Grand Island Transit Development Plan, also known as GO GI Transit. This project began in October 2021 and it is estimated to be completed in November 2022.

The Transit Development Plan is a study that will help the City of Grand Island plan for the future of public transit in the Grand Island/Hall County area. The plan will encompass an analysis of the current CRANE Public Transit system and develop potential future service options based on current and anticipated future needs. Ultimately, the Transit Development Plan will result in an implementable and fundable plan for the next 10, and even 20, years to meet the short- and long-term needs of transit service in the Grand Island community.

The project website is located at www.crane-transit.com/i-want-to/gogi.

GIAMPO staff will provide an update on the Transit Development Plan at the April 11 TAC meeting.
